

BOTOND GAÁL

THE TRUTH OF REASON AND THE REALITY OF THE WORLD

HISTORIC DEVELOPMENT OF EXACT SCIENCES FROM A CHRISTIAN VIEWPOINT

BÖSZÖRMÉNYI JENŐ ALAPÍTVÁNY
DEBRECENI REFORMÁTUS HITTUDOMÁNYI EGYETEM
DEBRECEN
2002

CONTENTS

PREFACE

1. INTRODUCTION	1
2. ROOTS OF EXACT SCIENCES IN ANCIENT TIMES	4
Plato projects reality into heaven	5
Aristotle: reality equals the truth of the divine part of mind	10
Stoics talk about the ‘soul of the universe’	14
Philo dissolves man in divinity	17
Rise and decline in Greek mathematics	19
Intellectualism of the Jews of ancient times	27
3. POSITION OF ANTIQUE SCIENCE IN THE STRONG CENTURIES OF THE ROMAN EMPIRE	37
The appearance of Christianity	37
The political framework of Rome	37
Importance of Alexandria and of the east-west religious movement	39
Fight with gnosticism	40
Victory over neoplatonism	41
Fall of Alexandria and the decline of Hellenic culture	43
4. THE FIRST SIGNIFICANT ERA OF CHRISTIAN THINKING ...	45
Trinity, a factor influencing views	46
Creatio ex nihilo	48
New interpretation of the relationship between truth and reality in Christian thinking	53
Four important thinkers of the ancient church who contributed to the proper development of exact sciences through their cosmology	57
Contingent approach and the order of the world	61
5. FROM PTOLEMY TO COPERNICUS	67
Ptolemy ‘saved the phenomena’	68

The teleological theology of Augustine	69
Did Thomas Aquinas succeed in bringing about the great synthesis?	71
The turn by Copernicus	73
6. EXTERNAL MEANS OF THE INITIAL DEVELOPMENT OF SCIENCE IN GRECO-ROMAN CULTURE	75
Technical level	75
Evolution and effects of writing	77
7. AT THE DAWN OF MODERN TIMES	83
Buridan doubts the truth of Aristotelian physics	84
The pioneering role of the Academy of Florence	85
Importance of the theology of the Reformation in scientific thinking	86
8. NEW APPROACH – NEW ERA	91
Descartes before the threshold of the modern times	92
Kepler at the threshold of the modern times	93
Galileo steps over the threshold of the modern times	94
Newton creates the world of the modern times	95
Kant puts the seal on the intellectual direction of the modern times	103
German idealists after Hume and Kant	104
9. THE EXPANDED CONCEPT OF REALITY FROM MAXWELL TO EINSTEIN	107
Maxwell expands the concept of reality	109
Einstein opens his mind on the unlimited world	113
10. THE WORLD OPEN UPWARDS - Truth approaching reality in the scientific thinking of the twentieth century	121
Mathematicians interpret the nature of mathematics	121
Physicists debate about the laws of physics	127
Personal knowledge and reality in Mihály Polányi's philosophy of science	133
Karl Barth's 'epistemological revolution' in theology	137

11. A SECRET OF THE CONCEPTION OF EUROPEAN CIVILIZATION	149
Different approaches to the ‘European miracle’	149
Thinking in writing	151
The necessity of expressing abstract thinking	153
Thinking in writing in mathematics	157
Christianity and the world of mind in other cultures and religions	159
The spatio-temporo-material world and the mind perceiving it	163
12. HARMONY OF THE MODERN UNDERSTANDING OF THE WORLD AND CHRISTIAN APPROACH - Summary and perspectives	169
The order	169
The temporal beginning	171
The teleological nature of the laws of the universe	172
A uniform approach to the world	174
BIBLIOGRAPHY	179