

THE NEW POLITICAL ECONOMY OF EMERGING EUROPE

By

László Csaba

AKADÉMIAI KIADÓ · BUDAPEST, 2005

CONTENTS

1. FOREWORD – WHY THIS BOOK?	11
Preliminaries and Background	11
What Is New Political Economy?	13
Why Not Eastern Europe/Transition Economies?	18
The Map of the Project	20
References	23
2. A COMPARATIVE OVERVIEW OF EMPIRICAL EVIDENCE	25
On Catching up	26
Production and Performance of the Transforming Economies	28
Summay View	35
Utilization of Gross Domestic Product	37
The Social Side of Transformation: Inflation and Unemployment	40
External Trade and Finance	48
Trade – Exports	49
Import Markets: Potential or Problem-Field?	51
External Finance	55
Foreign Direct Investment – Do We Possess a Key?	57
Some Preliminary Conclusions from Empirical Evidence	61
References	63
3. THE DEVELOPMENTAL DIMENSION OF POST-COMMUNIST CHANGE	81
The Thorny Path to Growth	82
Emerging Economies or Developing Societies?	90
Varietas delectat?	97
References	98

4. TRANSNATIONAL MARKETS AND LOCAL POLITICS – THE POST-COMMUNIST DIMENSION	102
State Desertion, State Failure or Subversive Globalization?	103
Policies and Erosion in Emerging Economies: What Is the Nexus?	106
The Experience of Frontrunners	110
The Same Seen from the Angle of the Mouse: Laggards in Transition....	116
The New Economy – a Defining Feature of 21 st Century Development	122
On the Co-Evolution of the State and Market	126
References	128
5. ‘GLOBALIZATION’ AND ‘EUROPEANIZATION’: A DOUBLE CHALLENGE FOR EMERGING EUROPE	132
Global Challenges – Transnational Processes.....	133
‘Europeanization’ as a Special Challenge	141
New Members: The Challenge of Third Wave of Transformation.....	148
On Social Stress: No Pain, No Gain?	153
References	156
6. LIMITS TO ACCESSION-DRIVEN TRANSFORMATION IN CENTRAL EUROPE	160
Transition and EU Integration: Do They Fully Overlap?	160
European Governance in Global Perspective.....	164
European Standardization and Developmental Tasks.....	170
Europeanization: Is There a Move to a Single Standard Solution?.....	174
Toward Multi-Level Governance – By Default?	177
References	180
7. A NON-STABILITY AND ANTI-GROWTH PACT FOR EUROPE?.....	182
Introduction	182
Stability and Growth Pact and the Single Currency	184
Stability and Growth Pact and the New EU Members.....	191
On the Quick Adoption of the Euro	198
Conclusions.....	207
References	210
8. RUSSIAN TRANSFORMATION: FROM STATE FAILURE TO MARKET FAILURE?	214
Russian Economic Change: A Bird’s Eye View	215
Russian Capitalism: The Wild East and/or State Capitalism?	222
How Can We Test If Russia Is Indeed a Market Economy?.....	229
What Matters for Growth? Prospects for the Russian Economy.....	234
References	240

9. MARKET SOCIALISM: THE VIABLE IMPOSSIBLE?	252
China – A Challenge to the Post-Washington Consensus	253
Why Marketize Socialism? Salient Features of the Classical Model	256
Salient Features of the Soviet Model: Poetry and Reality	256
Reform Socialist Models	264
Bukharin’s New Economic Policy	265
The Yugoslav Model: Decentralization and Self-Management	269
The Hungarian Alternative – The New Economic Mechanism	273
The Chinese Model.....	276
Is China a Developmental Alternative?	280
Concluding Remarks.....	292
References	294
10. PRIVATIZATION, REGULATION AND REGULATED MARKETS.....	300
Privatization, Regulation and Efficiency.....	300
Private Property and Multi-Level Governance.....	304
Interrelationships between Welfare and Financial Sector Reforms	308
Regulatory Regimes: The Case for Transnational Solutions	313
The European Dimension	318
References	322
11. INSTITUTIONS AND GROWTH: WHAT IS THE NEXUS?.....	325
Endowments, Policies and Culture.....	326
Formalization and Enforcement.....	330
Policies and Transnationalization	332
The Politics of Economic Reform	335
The Role of Financial Institutions	337
Self-Correction and Coordination in Complex Systems	343
Rules, Ideas and Policy Discretion.....	345
The Democratic Development Alternative	348
References	350
12. SUBJECT INDEX.....	354